Dear Jim;

"CORROSION X" - I've always made a policy not to believe a salesman, especially one with an off the wall claim !

I took the can of CORROSION X on the delivery of our 40' motorsailer from Norfolk to Hilton head. When we started out into the remainder of "GORDON" the helm windshield wiper froze reducing wheelhouse visibility to nil. Remembering your claims and with nothing to loose I took the cover off the unit and doused it with CORROSION X, put it back together, turned it on and, as you said, it worked and hasn't stopped working, on demand, ever since.

As the weather worsened we stowed non screwed down gear in the forward cabin, including a color TV set.. A partially open port swiftly made this ex TV a piece of salt water cover junk. You told me that your show demo was a TV set operating immersed in CORROSION X, so, I took the cover off this piece of saltified junk, doused it with your product, put it in a locker and went back to work. That night I put on the inverter, plugged in the TV and miraculously watched the weather telling me that GORDON had fled back south.

Subsequently I have sprayed every terminal board in the engine room and assume, since you seem to be always right, that all will be well when we depart for the Bahamas in February.

Thanks ! I still wont believe ridiculous claims by salesmen however I will believe you.

I will be stocking CORROSION X in the Chandlery we are opening next spring and would like to discuss distribution in the area.

Sincerely:

TAD WOODHULL
